

Funeral Rites Are Held On Thursday

MORTON, Aug. 11. (Special) — Funeral rites were conducted here this afternoon for W. E. (Buster) Carroll, 24, of Levelland who died Wednesday of a bullet wound which, according to authorities, he said he had inflicted upon himself because he had "pulled a bonehead."

Efforts to communicate with the man's father, E. T. Carroll, 64, who was believed en route to California and his mother, who lives near Huntsville, were unavailing.

Burial was in a cemetery here.

He died at 9 o'clock Wednesday night after the shooting which happened about 3:30 o'clock that afternoon three miles north of Morton.

It was reported Carroll had threatened to shoot an infant in the car with a man who had given Carroll a ride. The threat was made, according to the account, when Carroll demanded that he be taken to Littlefield, beyond the point where the driver, Orville Perry, lived.

After being informed of Carroll's actions by Perry, officers went to investigate and the sheriff said Carroll was sheltered in a deep ditch when officers tried unsuccessfully to persuade him to surrender. The officers, according to their report, fired several shots into the air in an attempt to frighten him and the sheriff. Finally, the report continued, Carroll waved a white handkerchief and the sheriff started alone to approach him.

The sheriff had moved only a few steps, it was said, when a shot sounded. He discovered Carroll had been shot through the abdomen.

A justice of peace's official finding in the case, according to officers, was that death was due to a bullet wound self-inflicted.

Continued on next page

Funeral Rites Are Held On Thursday

MORTON, Aug. 11. (Special) – Funeral rites were conducted here this afternoon for W. E. (Buster) Carroll, 24, of Levelland who died Wednesday of a bullet wound which, according to authorities, he said he had inflicted upon himself because he had “pulled a bonehead.”

Efforts to communicate with the man’s father, E. T. Carroll, 64, who was believed en route to California and his mother, who lives near Huntsville, were unavailing.

Burial was in a cemetery here.

He died at 9 o’clock Wednesday night after the shooting which happened about 3:30 o’clock that afternoon three miles north of Morton.

It was reported Carroll had threatened to shoot an infant in the car with a man who had given Carroll a ride. The threat was made, according to the account, when Carroll demanded that he be taken to Littlefield, beyond the point where the driver, Orville Perry, lived.

After being informed of Carroll’s actions by Perry, officers went to investigate and the sheriff said Carroll was sheltered in a deep ditch when officers tried unsuccessfully [sic] to persuade him to surrender. The officers, according to their report, fired several shots into the air in an attempt to frighten him, and the sheriff. Finally the report continued, Carroll waved a white handkerchief [sic] and the sheriff started alone to approach him.

The sheriff had moved only a few steps, it was said, when a shot sounded. He discovered Carroll had been shot through the abdomen.

A justice of peace’s official finding in the case, according to officers, was that the death was a bullet wound self-inflicted [sic].

Back to Obituary Index